Choosing My Title

The Data Scientist role seems to fit me the best. Most roles listed under this title include the responsibilities that interest me the most: data collection, machine learning, data analysis, and data visualization. I hold 50% of the requirements most of these posting. I considered the Research Scientist role but the requirement for most of these positions ask for a Phd. I would consider the Data Analyst role or Product Analyst role for listings. Most of these list requirements and duties that I fell I am well competent at and fear the role would not challenge me.
